

Qualtrics

What is Qualtrics?

Qualtrics allows you to easily design surveys with question libraries, point-and-click design, automatic choices, and question randomization. It includes advanced features such as a comprehensive selection of question types, skip logic and branching options, and collaboration tools. Qualtrics also allows users to easily distribute surveys to participants; compile, organize, and analyze responses; and generate reports from survey data.

How do I get a Qualtrics account?

Faculty and administrators, please click on the following link to submit a request for an account. <http://www.suffolk.edu/explore/57640.php>

Students, your faculty will provide you with instructions for access.

Your account will be immediately approved to create and distribute surveys.

You must register at the <https://suffolk.qualtrics.com> site provided above. If you go to the public Qualtrics company website and create a trial account, any surveys you create or data you collect will not be accessible from the university Qualtrics site. If you already created an account on the Qualtrics site, you will need to contact them to remove your account as users can only have one account associated with the same email address. Contact Qualtrics via e-mail anytime at support@qualtrics.com or by phone at 1-800-340-9194 (between 9am-8pm EST).

Can my students use Qualtrics?

Yes. faculty who want their students to use Qualtrics will have to provide them with a special student self-enrollment code. To obtain the code, faculty should contact the service desk at servicedesk@suffolk.edu

Students must use their Suffolk email address. Non-Suffolk accounts cannot be used. Once students self-enroll, they will have access to immediately create and distribute surveys.

You must register at the <https://suffolk.qualtrics.com> site provided above. If you go to the public Qualtrics company website and create a trial account, any surveys you create or data you collect will not be accessible from our Qualtrics site.
